PURPOSE

The purpose of this policy is to outline the use of local Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA) funds for Incumbent Worker Training (IWT) programs.

POLICY

Incumbent Worker Training is designed to meet the special requirements of an employer (including a group of employers) to: retain a skilled workforce, avert the need to lay off employees, enable employees to advance on a career ladder, and/or to provide new or updated knowledge or skills in order to support retention, expansion and growth of the employer. Incumbent Worker training must increase both a participant's and a company's competitiveness.

NOW may expend up to 20 percent of its combined total of adult and dislocated worker allocations for incumbent worker training. Employers and trainees must meet eligibility criteria in order to participate in an IWT program, as outlined in Exhibit A. There are additional criteria that must be taken into account by NOW for an employer to receive IWT funds which are also outlined in the Incumbent Worker Training Application, Exhibit A.

Costs of Training

IWT projects are partnerships that involve investment by both employers and NOW.

Participating employers will pay the following share of training costs:

- 10 percent of the cost for employers with not more than 50 employees
- 25 percent of the cost for employers with 51-100 employees; and
- 50 percent of the cost, for employers with more than 100 employees

The employer investment may be a cash or in-kind. The value of in-kind contributions must be demonstrated using documentation of fair market value of the contribution. Employers may contribute to the direct cost of training and training materials. The investment by the employer may also include the amount of the wages paid by the employer to a worker while the worker is participating in the training activity. Wages paid to the participant while in training can be included only as an in-kind contribution and will not be reimbursed. Employer cost share contributions must be tracked and documented. In addition, the methodologies for determining the value of in-kind contributions must be documented and conform to cost sharing requirements.

Awards

Employers will apply for funds using the IWT Application. At its discretion, NOW may use a competitive process with application deadlines to award resources and otherwise will allocate funds on a first-come first-serve basis while funds are available.

Funds will be awarded based on funds availability as well as need and appropriateness of training relevant to local industry priorities. The specific amount per project, number of employees to be trained, type of training, project outcomes and project requirements will be reviewed annually and are subject to change ongoing.

INCUMBENT WORKER TRAINING PROGRAM

EMPLOYER APPLICATION

Northwest Oregon Works (NOW) supports professional development as an integral part of effective workforce development. One way NOW demonstrates this support is through Incumbent Worker Training Programs (IWT). IWT programs provide training to existing workers in order to help them advance in a career pathway and/or to provide new or updated knowledge or skills in order to support retention, expansion and growth for the employer.

COSTS

IWT programs are partnerships wherein NOW and the employer co-invest in the training. Employers are responsible for a share of training costs based on number of employees as follows:

- 10 percent (10%) of the cost for employers with not more than 50 employees
- 25 percent (25%) of the cost for employers with 51-100 employees; and
- 50 percent (50%) of the cost, for employers with more than 100 employees

The employer investment may be a cash or in-kind. The value of in-kind contributions must be demonstrated using documentation of fair market value of the contribution. Employers may contribute to the direct cost of training and training materials. The investment by the employer may also include the amount of the wages paid by the employer to a worker while the worker is participating in the training activity. Wages may be applied to the amount of an employer's investment as an in-kind contribution only. NOW will not reimburse wages paid to trainees.

The following activities may be paid for with IWT funds:

- The cost of training for employees to learn: a new or updated technology, equipment or process; employer-specified or industry-specific skills;
- Train-the-trainer instruction to build the capacity of businesses;
- Training materials and supplies;
- Facility expenses directly related to and necessary for the training;
- Rental of tools and equipment critical to the project;
- Travel expense and per diem of instructor(s) at government-approved rates; and
- Instructor/trainer fees

Funds may not be used to pay for:

- Costs incurred prior to the approval date of the application;
- Construction or purchase of facilities or buildings;
- Equipment purchases;
- Business relocation expenses;
- Lobbying activities
- Activities that directly or indirectly assist, promote, or deter union organizing.

Employer Eligibility Criteria

Employers must meet all eligibility criteria in order to apply for IWT. Employer must:

1. Operate in Benton, Clatsop, Columbia, Lincoln and/or Tillamook Counties.
2. Operate within a NOW priority industry outlined in its local plan and/or operates in an in-demand, in-balance or declining industry as determined by labor market information.
3. Have operated in Oregon for at least one year and not relocated from another location resulting in layoffs in the preceding 120 days prior to date of application.
4. Be current on all state and local tax obligations including unemployment insurance and workers' compensation.
5. Not be a religious, lobbying, gambling, or marijuana-related organization.
6. Have at least one full-time employee.

If the project will serve a group of employers, the applicant must meet all application criteria and will serve as the eligible employer and fiscal agent in any funding agreement that results from this application.

The following factors will be considered by NOW when considering applications for funding:

- The characteristics of the workers to be trained and how their retention and/or advancement would benefit from the training.
- The relationship of the training to the competitiveness of the trainees and the employer.
- The quality of training.
- Whether the training will allow the participant(s) to gain industry-recognized training experience, lead to industry-recognized credentials and/ or an increase in wages;
- The number of participants the employer plans to train or retrain;
- The wage and benefit levels of participants before and after training;
- The existence of other training opportunities provided by the employer
- The occupation(s) for which incumbent worker training is being provided must be in demand;

Incumbent Worker Eligibility Criteria

An incumbent worker must be:

1. A U.S. citizen or otherwise legally entitled to work in the U.S.;
2. Age 18 or older;
3. Registered for the Selective Service (males who are 18 or older and born on or after January 1, 1960) unless an exception is justified;
4. Employed;
5. Meet the Fair Labor Standards Act requirements for an employer-employee relationship (<http://www.dol.gov/whd>); and
6. Have an established employment history with the employer for six (6) months or more.

If the IWT is being provided to a cohort of employees, not every employee in the cohort must have an established employment history with the employer for six months or more as long as a majority of those employees being trained do meet the employment history requirement. IWT participants may be required to complete registration with WorkSource Oregon, if eligible.

Types of Incumbent Worker Training

Incumbent worker training may be provided as classroom-based training, on-the-job training, apprenticeship or a combination of the above. Training may be provided by the company for which the incumbent worker(s) works, or reputable education or training vendors.

Applications for IWT programs should demonstrate the need for training, to include:

- ☐ Declining sales,
- ☐ Supply chain issues,
- ☐ Adverse industry market trends,
- ☐ Changes in management behavior or ownership,
- ☐ Phasing out of certain function(s) with the introduction of new function(s) that require worker retraining,
- ☐ Required skill changes that would otherwise require downsizing, layoffs, etc. if not addressed including, but not limited to:
 - ☐ Skill changes required by external economic or market forces
 - ☐ Significant changes in technology or operating processes
 - ☐ Rapidly changing industry or occupational job requirements
 - ☐ Emergence of new products
- ☐ New technology and/or equipment implementation,
- ☐ Creation of new employment opportunities that require advance skills and knowledge, or
- ☐ Other reason justified in the application and deemed appropriate by NOW.

Application and Award

Completed applications should be submitted to info@onwib.org. Funds will be awarded based on funds availability as well as need and appropriateness of training relevant to local industry priorities. At its discretion, NOW may use a competitive process with application deadlines to award resources and otherwise will allocate funds on a first-come first-serve basis while funds are available.

If awarded, employers will sign an IWT agreement, acknowledge receipt of Grievance & Complaint Procedures and EEO Notification and any other documents required by the fund source. Upon completion of the training, and prior to reimbursement, the employer will submit employee eligibility documentation (name, gender, SSN, date of birth, job title, wage for each trainee), certificates of completion and/or copies of the credentials for each trainee, and any other documents required by the fund source.

Due to varying funding source requirements, the Incumbent Worker Training may/may not be made on a reimbursement basis. In the case of reimbursement funding, the employer must pay for the training prior to asking for reimbursement from NOW. Reimbursements will be made to the employer within 60 days of receipt of a copy of the invoice and proof of payment for the training.

NOW may follow-up with employers receiving IWT funds for up to one year following the training end date to verify information regarding the employee(s) who received incumbent worker training, including employment status, wage information and job title.
